Canadian Plane Crash Victim Arrives In U.S.

Embraces Mother Upon Arrival At Idlewild Airport

NEW YORK (AP)—Helen Klaben, 21, the Brooklyn girl who survived 49 days of incredible hardship after a plane crash in the Canadian wilderness, cried with joy today when she arrived at Idlewild Airport and was reunited with her family.

"Oh Mother," she exclaimed. "I'm coming, I'm coming," the mother, Ida, cried as she rushed to a mobile stretcher on which her smiling daughter lay.

"My precious darling," the mother gasped as they embraced and murmured endearments to each other.

Mrs. Klaben, who had spent long hours at the airport awaiting the return of a daughter she had never expected to see again, said, "You're a gift from Heaven — from God. I missed you so much. Now I have you again."

Miss Klaben flew here from Seattle with her brother Arthur, who had flown to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, to join her after her rescue.

Also on hand to greet her were her sisters, Mrs. Ruth Teitelbaum and Linda Klaben, and two other brothers, Martin and Robert.

Ralph Flores, the San Bruno, Calif., pilot rescued with Miss Klaben, remained in a Whitehorse hospital.

Miss Klaben said, "My mother suffered more than I did."

Mrs. Klaben stood by, glancing her daughter's hand, as the latter talked. After talking with newsmen, Miss Klaben was wheeled on the stretcher to a waiting vehicle to be taken to Columbia Presbyterian Hospital.

"I feel just wonderful," Miss Klaben said.

"Nowhere in the world could I have gotten a better gift from God than this," Mrs. Klaben interjected. "I don't know what I did to deserve it. This is a miracle."

Miss Klaben, who seemed rested despite her long trip, said that she plans to continue her adventures but will stay home for a while. She added that she has no beau, but said in answer to another question, "Of course I would like to get married."

Marine Gets Discharged for Maltreatment

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Marine Corps Sgt. Carlton L. Slay, convicted of 14 counts of mistreating recruits, shuddered and ground his knuckles against the table before him when he heard his punishment pronounced:

Confinement at hard labor for three years, demotion to the rank of private, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and a bad-conduct discharge.

The 33-year-old Leatherneck slammed his gloves on the table and wept. He had wanted to stay in the corps.

After his conviction, but prior to his sentencing, he told a general court-martial Friday, "I consider myself a career man and a professional Marine. I am ready, prepared and trained to go into combat whenever the button is pushed. I'll be proud to go back and serve as a Marine wherever they send me."

Slay has never been in combat. Convicted of striking and choking recruits, Sgt. Slay got an even stiffer sentence than Marine S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon who in 1956 led a night march on which six recruits drowned at Parris Island, N.C.

Slay's sentence is subject to review, first by the commander of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here and later by higher authorities. It is not uncommon for such sentences to be reduced.

Fifteen young Marines who had been drilled by Slay testified for the prosecution earlier in the trial. But they returned to testify for the defense and all but one said they would be willing to follow Slay into battle.

Pupils to Give United Commencement Talks

Judy Wilson

Janie Heinbuch

Lynden Gamble

Gay Maxson

At the May 28 commencement, United Local School will institute a new plan utilizing the talents of students rather than engaging a professional speaker, Executive Head Chester Brautigam announced today.

Five seniors, who will be the first products of the high school which opened 12 years ago, were chosen this week to deliver graduation messages.

They are: Lynden Gamble, Janie Heinbuch, Gay Maxson, Gary Milliken and Judy Wilson. The two boys and three girls were elected by the graduating class of 44 girls and 23 boys as the best representatives of their class.

Lynden, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gamble of Winona, and Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Milliken of RD 3, Salem, received an equal number of votes.

Miss Heinbuch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Heinbuch of RD 2, Salem; Miss Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Hanoverton, and Miss Maxson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCullough of RD 1, Kensington.

Each student will give speeches of three to five minutes in duration and stemming from a common theme to be chosen by a committee. The committee will consist of the five student lecturers, Brautigam, Mrs. Wilbur Leathberry, Latin and math teacher, Mrs. Wilmer Satterthwaite, English and French teacher, and Principal Frank Solak.

Brautigam said the plan, which has been used by Salem schools for many years, is designed to create more personal interest among students, the parents and faculty.

Showdown Due On Board of Regents Bill

Measure 'Watered Down' by Senate Education Group

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
News Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The much-debated, sharply revised administration bill to create an Ohio Board of Regents appears to be heading for a legislative showdown.

Watered down by the Senate Education Committee, the bill now bears only slight resemblance to the one passed by the House last month. It's expected to be called up for a floor vote in the Senate by midweek and House sponsors of the measure fear it will pass unchanged.

If it does, the sponsors say they will call for a House-Senate conference committee — the first of this session — in an effort to restore some of the powers stripped from the bill by the Senate Education Committee.

Longworth Objects
Two of the sponsors — Reps. Harry Jump, R-Huron, and Robert H. Longworth, R-Carroll — say their principal objection to the bill now is that the regents would not have authority to determine new degrees and degree programs offered at state universities.

This is the one Senate Education Committee amendment that strikes at the heart of the bill.

"I can't understand the reasoning behind this amendment," Jump said. "The idea in setting up a board of this kind was to have a separate agency with statutory authority to coordinate higher education."

Jump said the amendment apparently was designed to help pacify state university presidents who have been critical of the bill from the start.

Could Recommend
The bill gives the regents power to make degree program recommendations, but the universities would have the right to ignore them.

However, Sen. Charles Whalen, R-Dayton, an Education Committee member, points out that the legislature would have the final power of determination in any event, simply because it controls the purse strings.

"This bill may not be just what the sponsors want," Whalen said. "But I think basically the bill is sound."

Another committee member, Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-Ironton, believes the amended bill is far superior to the House-passed version.

"It will go through the Senate with no further amendments and then go to a conference committee," Collins said. "I think this is a very good bill."

Eminent Domain Limited
Another amendment which bothers the House sponsors would exclude universities with more than $12.5 million endowments from a provision extending the state's power of eminent domain to private universities.

That amendment was offered after a huge delegation from neighborhoods around Case Institute of Technology and Western

'IN THE SPRING A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY TURNS...' Herbert A. Gross, who is 97 years young, amazes many persons much younger than he by performing such spring chores as rolling the lawn or taking a nine-block "hike" to town. The News photographer found the retired boiler operator and school teacher rolling his lawn at 1009 E. 9th St. yesterday with this 65-year-old cement roller. Yes, Mr. Gross also plants a garden.

Trio In Burglary Will Get Hearing

LISBON — The three Mahoning County men apprehended in a stake-out early Thursday morning at Turkey Run Inn, east of Columbiana, are still confined to the Columbiana County Jail.

Hearings for the three will be held Monday at 1 p.m. before County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine on charges of carrying concealed weapons and possession of burglary tools, which charges were filed by Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

The defendants are Amil Dinsio, 26, of 1008 Calla Rd., Poland; Harold Dailey, 32, and Daniel Marshall, 33, both of 3384 Sandalwood Lane, Youngstown.

Clerk of Courts Carl W. Stacey has received two calls in reference to furnishing bonds for the trio but he advised the bondsmen that he will not accept the bonds unless they come directly from a bonding company. If Dinsio is able to make bond here he will be held for Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden Jr., of Mahoning County who has issued a "hold" on Dinsio because he is under indictment for burglary and is presently out on bond there.

Face Other Charges
It is also expected that extradition bond will be set Monday in common pleas court here by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard as Weirton and Wheeling authorities are expected to file extradition papers on the three for armed robbery of Gene D. Costalas of

Cuban Message Claims Planes Fired In Error

Removal of Soviet Troops From Island Now No. 1 Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest Cuban squall—with more thunder than lightning—seemed to have all but passed over today. And U.S. officials turned again to a more lingering problem: the thousands of Russian troops still in Cuba.

Tension over Thursday night's Cuban MIG attack on an American cargo ship, the Floridian, dropped sharply after a swift note from Cuba saying the Russian-built fighters "probably fired in error." The ship was not hit.

Informants in Havana said Friday night that Prime Minister Fidel Castro has promised to deliver an explanation to the United States on the strafing.

But time was approaching for what President Kennedy said would be a new look at Soviet troop strength on the island.

At his last news conference March 21, Kennedy said that about 3,000 Russians had left Cuba since Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev promised to withdraw several thousand. That left an estimated 11,000 on the island—and, said Kennedy, "We hope more will pull out."

"The month of March is not finished yet and we should have a clearer idea as to what the total numbers should be in the coming days."

Since then about 400 more Soviet military personnel have departed, according to unofficial reports. But Kennedy, who considered the Cuban situation at a meeting of the National Security Council Executive Committee Friday, has kept silent on the count.

The quick cooling off of the shooting incident indicated both Havana and Washington wanted to avoid any new crisis.

The State Department disclosed Friday that the strafing—which

Income Tax Declarations Due April 15

Deadline for filing 1962 final and 1963 declarations for city income tax is April 15. City Auditor Helen Coyne said today.

Every employed person 18 years of age or older who is working outside the city or who does not have the tax withheld by his or her employer must file a return. Vacation pay, exempt in 1961, must be declared for 1962 and 1963. Also taxable is income from property rentals.

Not taxable are dividends, interest, pension money and unemployment pay.

Penalty for failure to file or pay city tax may range up to $500 or six months or both, according to provisions of the city income tax ordinance.

The auditor's office requests that the income tax forms mailed in December be brought to the office by those wishing to make returns there.

U.S. May Act Against Raids By Cuba Exiles

CHICAGO (AP)—President Kennedy may order U.S. warships to patrol against exiles using American territory for launching raids on Cuba, the Chicago Sun-Times reported today.

In a dispatch from the Sun-Times bureau in Washington, the newspaper quoted an unidentified U.S. official as saying, "As of this moment, there is no plan to call out the fleet." But the newspaper said his words seemed to suggest such a development may be near.

The report seemed to receive support from Edwin M. Martin, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, the Sun-Times said.

In a radio interview, Martin said, "I feel sure there will be efforts made to increase the surveillance to ensure that U.S. territory is not utilized (by raiders) in the future, whether it has been or not in the past."

Some Congressmen have commented that a series of raids by the exiles on Cuban territory and Soviet vessels may have prompted the firing of Cuban MIG fighters on the U.S. motorship Floridian Thursday night.

A Lenten Message

Guilt By Association

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

The spectacle of Pilate washing his hands as a symbol of his own innocence is pathetic. And it is imitated every day. Pilate was trapped at a moment when he had to make a decision which he would gladly have evaded. He knew what he wanted to do, but he was certain that he couldn't stand up against the crowd. In the tension between the two, he tried to duck the issue. History always records such acts as "guilty by disassociation."

The old spiritual asks, "Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" We all want to reply, "Of course not. I had nothing to do with it."

SIMON PETER was in the courtyard warming his hands when a servant girl accused him of being one of Jesus' followers. "I am not one of them," he insisted, trying as it were to wash his hands of it.

Saul, who later became Paul, stood by watching men stone Stephen. In the days that followed he couldn't forget what he had seen. He couldn't argue himself into innocence, and so wash his hands of it.

Look at every movement in history and you will discover that there are those who are guilty because they did nothing. They insulate themselves from the problems, sanctify complacency and pretend to be shocked when they see what happens.

WE ALL HAVE a desire to make the world go away and leave us alone. Why should we have to consider all of the problems? But then, try to call for a basin and wash your hands of it!

It is a lifetime of Lent that we are all involved. Not only the people who shouted "Crucify him," but those who refused to say anything. Not only those who pronounced him guilty, but those who refused to stand for him.

So Nazism grew in Germany, not only because of the ardent fanatics, but also because of the apathy of the people who should have cared.

So juvenile delinquency engulfs urban areas, not only because of the acts of wicked people, but also because of the lack of acts of the "good people."

YEARS AGO, it was said that the business of religion is not only to comfort the afflicted but also to afflict the comfortable. It is this function of a great faith that is apparent as a Lenten life-line.

Our generation is adept at building escape hatches. We can get away from it all easier than almost any other generation in history. We have pleasures to divert us, activities to deflect us, personal concerns to insulate us. We have no trouble finding the basins for our little handwashing ceremonies.

We need also the sudden shock of understanding that there really is no escape.

A few weeks ago I watched some boys throwing snowballs. One lad had poor aim and suddenly, a window was broken. Those boys who were still on the lawn when the janitor arrived could say, "I didn't do it." Perhaps years later they would be involved in all kinds of adult activities and find themselves with the same childish disclaimer, "I didn't do it."

THESE ARE THE marks of a great faith: that we know we are involved, that we do recognize that we have something to do with it, and that there is a forgiving love of God to restore a man to his responsible position.

The Lenten fact is not only that we are guilty; it is also that there is a love to overcome the guilt. At this moment there must be a hundred situations which ought to command our concern.

As a report to a world missionary convention years ago reminded us, "There are three great areas of our world which the churches have not really penetrated. They are Hinduism, Islam and the culture of modern cities."

There is a startling line in a beautiful prayer which we can all pray in these Lenten days: "Lord, forgive me the unkind word and the unkind silence."

Newest Reference Volume May Help Bible Studies

By HAROLD SHEEHAN
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Among the questions facing the American Bible Society when it launched work on its new reference Bible were:

1. What is a dragon?
2. What did the ancients mean by cornets?
3. When is a room not a room in the Bible?

The task of Bible scholars is often one of updating the scriptures. Our rapidly changing language frequently leaves the Bible reader scratching his head over words like dragon, meaning jack-el; cornet, actually castanet, and room which can also mean a seat.

THE SOCIETY has just issued its first reference Bible, which has been in preparation since 1946.

The new edition offers alternative translations based on older and more accurate Hebrew and Greek manuscripts than were available to the translators of the King James version more than 350 years ago. Also included is a host of words which have changed meaning in the intervening centuries.

Thus, the reader may use the King James version but have many of the advantages of a modern translation and modern English.

THE FINAL QUARTER of the volume is devoted to a concordance containing some 45,000 context lines as guides to often-sought passages. There are 37 references, for example, which contain the word "delight," hundreds for the word "hand," scores of references which mention "peace."

In addition, the authors have included eight color maps of the Bible land, viewed as if from an orbiting space capsule.

An executive secretary of the Bible Society, the Rev. James Z. Nettinga, outlined the purpose of publishing the new scriptures:

"This project was undertaken to meet the demand for an up-to-date King James version of the Bible for those who prefer its beautiful prose but also wish to have quick access to the modern equivalents of words which have changed meaning, or to translations suggested by the discovery of more ancient copies of the Scriptures.

"The Bible Society," added Dr. Nettinga, "believes that this new volume will increase interest in Bible study because of other unique features such as topical section headings, verses arranged in paragraphs for easier reading, and a new footnote reference system.

"Above all, it was made as contemporary as possible in binding and its clear print. The price has been kept at a minimum ($2.05) in fulfillment of the Society's missionary and evangelistic purposes."

THE TREE Climbers

Thought about climbing any trees lately? The tree climbers seem to belong to a very young segment of the population.

Why do you suppose most of us have outgrown that compelling urge to climb a tree? It used to make every trunk a challenge, every limb a precarious perch.

Well, we've discovered other challenges. And we've had our fill of precarious perches. Eventually a man turns his zest for triumph to more constructive purposes.

But, have you observed that many people seem to climb above the tiresome every-day level of life? And, strangely, they appear more secure challenging the roof of existence than those who cling to its floor.

The youthful compulsion which once made us tree climbers reaches maturity on a spiritual plane. Our God-given zest for triumph finds fulfillment in the quest of religious Faith... the challenge of Christian living! Start climbing next Sunday... in church!

Toughest Part of Relief Problem

Nothing is harder for a bona fide beneficiary of relief to put up with than a sneering accusation that all people on relief are chiselers.

This accusation is made in malice by people of ill will who do not know what they are talking about. It is an insult to welfare workers responsible for relief administration as well as to relief recipients.

Yet, the accusation is made often, malice and all, and must be taken into consideration by everybody concerned with relief administration. They may deplore the tendency of human beings to believe the worst about each other in this unhappy relationship between haves and have-nots, but they must cope with it.

THE OHIO Senate's passage of a bill requiring able-bodied relief recipient to work in return for assistance is a move in the right direction.

It declares a policy—that able-bodied relief clients should work in return for their assistance.

It is an attempt to regularize, on a statewide basis, the administration of relief.

That is as far as any legislature can go.

It cannot make jobs for relief recipients. If it could make jobs, they would be made at the expense of regular employees at a time when men are hunting jobs.

But there is work not being done for lack of funds that could be done by able-bodied people entitled to relief—and this is where everybody stands to gain.

Nearly all relief recipients would be glad to do useful work, even in places where they now are being asked to do nothing.

The few who might balk should bear the black eye they give all relief recipients. It is too much to hope they might even be placed in a separate category, to separate them from those willing to work.

And it is too much to hope this would hush people of ill will whose slanders insult decent relief clients and social workers who cope with relief problems.

If it were state policy to require all able-bodied relief recipients to work, public authority would be responsible for keeping them busy.

Responsibility for idleness would not fall on the recipient.

Priced Out of the Market

"Through these portals pass the highest hourly-rated unemployed people on earth."

This could be inscribed over the front door of every place in the United States where unemployed people hunt for work.

It is more than another economic joke to say this country has become too expensive to live in. It is a summation of a monstrous irony.

Joblessness keeps edging up on the consciousness of all who want to think it will go away if they refuse to look at it.

But those who do not look at it see some things that are not ordinarily seen for what they are.

Jobs dried up at the end of the '20s when people ran out of buying power for goods that had become overpriced.

When the speculative dream of an Easy Street wide enough and long enough to take care of everybody collapsed, the boom was over and the depression got under way.

TODAY, there is another dream.

This one is about wages — high enough to put all wage earners on Easy Street.

It has boosted rates for electricians as high as $8 an hour in New York City. It has surrounded high wage rates with deep-pile fringe benefits. Strongly unionized, highly skilled workers get more per hour than their fathers earned per day.

This has turned into a subsidy for the automaters of industry—those clever people who now can furnish a machine to do almost anything people can do, except buy its output.

But when do employers replace people with automation. When the people price themselves out of competition with the machines that stand ready to replace them.

Fitting Memorial

Mrs. Andrew MacLeod's gift of a fund sufficient to build a small but beautiful chapel at the Salem Central Clinic & Hospital is a fitting memorial to her late husband, who was the efficient, hard-working treasurer of the original Mullins Manufacturing Corp.

It honors the memory of a man who helped to guide Mullins through some lean years in the '30's and who always lent strong support to civic endeavors. The MacLeod Chapel will be a worthy addition to the hospital which needs such a room for quiet meditation and prayer.

Purely Personal

At least the college basketball scandals that usually pop this time of the year were ejected out this year by the rumble of an alleged college football scandal, which breaks the monotony of our disenchantment with win-at-any-price athletics.

Teddy Kennedy apologized to the photographer who took his picture at the ski resort in New England, but for my money a photographer is wrong as a $3 bill in taking anyone's picture without permission, either implied or expressed.

I planted sweet peas on St. Patrick's Day once, and sure enough they came up and bloomed, though I wouldn't mess around in cold muck again for all the sweet peas there are.

My father could look at a plank, a plot of ground, or a building and tell its dimensions within a foot or so. I can go after the same information with a tape measure and come no closer than he could come with his eye.

My first robin of the season was a thrill in spite of the fact I put no stock in first robins as harbingers. It is a comfort to know, though, that whatever breaks loose between now and May will break loose on robins, too, the sissies.

Try as I will to work up a cry about what is happening to push restaurants, allegedly because the government cracked down on the expense-account racket, I can find no sadness within me. The few times I have seen the inside of these places, including the few times I have been paying the bill, have not endeared me to the high-waymen who run them or to insulting waiters who have mastered the art of keeping customers on the defensive.

The thing that strikes me as silly about the impending collapse of the United Na-

Home Show Is Tonic

Pleasant warm weather, blooming crocuses, singing robins and budding bushes all give unmistakable evidence of Spring.

And so does the annual Salem Home Show now under way at the Myers Building where hundreds of area residents anxious to do a bit of remodeling and redecorating around their homes are getting new ideas from local exhibitors who are specialists in "fixin' up" and home beautification. The home show is still on tonight, in case you've missed it.

When local boosters tell me about climatic shortcomings elsewhere, I make a point of mentioning thunder and lightning as two local features I could do without and never give them another thought if I lived to be a thousand. They scare me silly.

I have a scheme to take the heat off junketing congressmen: Run a Social Security number lottery for us taxpayers, with free trips abroad for a thousand winners each year, using those foreign funds they use on their junkets—I mean foreign funds, not our own money. That's the only way we'll ever get anything back on loans that aren't going to be paid.

I regret the passing of the modest motels I thought I could afford to stay in when I went traveling, because that's how the motel business was put on its feet—by hotels whose prices go beyond the reach of ordinary travelers.

Now that it's past, I could have wished afterward that Richard Nixon had asked me first if he should play the piano on the Jack Paar show. I would have shown him my old pictures of Calvin Coolidge being folksy in an Indian head-dress.

It is only a matter of time until someone tries to be as devastating with our Establishment as the young British satirists are being with theirs, and I predict failure. After all, there was a question for a time whether we were going to let that phonograph record about the Kennedys at home go unsmashed. And imagine what would happen if it had been about the Eisenhowers at home! Record smashings, that's what.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

President Kennedy, in agreeing to meet at the White House with Harold Wilson, head of the British Labor Party, is treading on dangerous ground.

Mr. Wilson has announced that he is bringing a 14-point program outlining British government policy in the event the Labor party wins the coming election.

Will Mr. Wilson be able on his return to England to tell British

David Lawrence
Will Mr. Wilson be able on his return to England to tell British voters in the coming campaign that if he becomes prime minister he has had assurances from President Kennedy concerning certain points in the program that may be developed as between the two countries?

Isn't this direct interference by a president of the United States in the internal political affairs of another country? What sort of precedent does it establish in international relations for the future?

There have been visits of courtesy heretofore during this and preceding administrations when distinguished visitors—including the head of the British Labor party—have come to Washington, or prominent members of Congress have gone abroad.

But one will look in vain in the records to find a formal conference on a concrete set of proposals publicly announced as the basis for future policies between our government and a foreign government and presented just a few months prior to an election contest in one of the two countries.

SUPPOSE Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Halleck—opposition leaders in the Senate and House, respectively—took a trip to London and discussed with Prime Minister Macmillan the Skybolt affair or just what should be done about nuclear deterrents?

Suppose they conferred at Paris with Gen. de Gaulle and assured him the Republican party would handle foreign policy more to his advantage than the Democratic administration?

If this happened and if an election were near, maybe both the British and French governments would decide to wait before taking further steps on a given question, and hence important moves in foreign policy with the incumbent administration here might be deferred or given up altogether.

In 1959, a statement was made by a prominent Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in an interview published in a Soviet government weekly. It declared relations between the two countries must be improved at all costs and that, if the Democrats defeated the Republicans in the 1960 election, there would be substantial changes in American foreign policy.

Mr. Wilson, British Labor party leader, is laying his election program before President Kennedy and presenting it as future government policy. This would be a violation of federal law if attempted by an American in a personal visit or by written communications with officials of a foreign government.

The Logan Act—which was passed by Congress in 1798, shortly after the republic was founded—provides criminal penalties for any citizen who "without authority of the United States, directly or indirectly commences or carries on any correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States."

SUCH ACTIVITY carried on by an individual prior to his assumption of office in government would still be covered by the law. It is part of what might be termed an unauthorized negotiation.

Maybe the British do not have such a law, but the mischief that can be done by collusion of any kind between an existing administration here and the leader of a major party in a foreign parliament is plainly apparent.

It makes the United States, for example, a participant in an election campaign in another country. It tends to cause hard feelings. For certainly the ministry which is in power in England doesn't have a representative present at the White House conference to argue its side or to answer any comments made by the president. The State Department's fortunate intrusion recently into Canadian politics by a tactless political crisis in Ottawa is an example of how seriously relations can be damaged when a government becomes involved in the internal affairs of another country.

Informal contacts are always possible, of course, at the ambassadorial level or in visits by opposition leaders from abroad with some of the subordinate officials of the state department.

But a conference between the President of the United States and the head of an opposition political party of a country like Great Britain just before an election is certainly not conducive to good relations between the governments or the peoples of the two countries.

President Kennedy, in February 1962 received at the White House the late Hugh Gaitskill, then head of the British Labor party, and the incident provoked bitter criticism of the Kennedy administration in the House of Commons.

This should have taught a lesson about dealing with the leader of an opposition party within a government which maintains formal diplomatic relations with the United States.

JFK's Interference In Foreign Affairs

"Yeah, I Miss th' Dealin' But Not Half As Much As th' Wheelin'"

Reuther: Roving Ambassador

By VICTOR RIESEL

Fiery Walter Reuther has become a roving ambassador. He is without any portfolio from the government. Just what papers his patch case carries, is of course, his secret. But he is being received in the highest echelons across the world — for his travels are encouraged by the Kennedys, John and Bob. Just a few weeks ago, for example, he met privately with Italy's Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani in Rome.

They talked confidentially on March 15th during Reuther's one day visit — sandwiched in between an international labor conference in Brussels and other talks in Stockholm. There was a unique conference.

It can be presumed that they discussed what appears to be closest to Reuther's heart — the welding of a militant global labor movement based on, amongst other pylons, the strong International Metalworkers Federation. This is an influential world organization of unions which includes an automotive division headed by Reuther. The federation also encompasses iron, steel, electrical, shipbuilding, machine construction and other fabricating workers labor organizations. It has held conferences in the U.S., Europe, South America and Asia.

SUCH A FEDERATION eventually could forge uniform policies to deal with international companies such as American auto producers, electrical equipment manufacturers and steel producers.

But Reuther is not limiting his personal skill and automobile union funds to the metal trades. He is giving "foreign aid" to weaker and embattled unions in many lands.

Only recently he spent 10 days in Japan. There it was decided to set up an international labor research center in Tokyo. Soon one of Reuther's Washington research aides will fly there to help develop it.

Most of the money for such projects across the world will come out of a central auto union pool, the Free World Labor Defense Fund which Reuther expects to hit almost $2 million this year. When he was in Brussels on March 13, he donated, in the name of the United Automobile Workers, of which he is president, $5,000 to aid the striking French coal diggers.

NATURALLY if you place all this Reuther activity at one end of the human equation, the other side will disclose at the very least a keen interest in his whirlwind by other American labor leaders.

LITTLE LIZ

In a lot of cases it's the women who give the shoe clerk a fit.

They see in Reuther a parallel to the late Sidney Hillman, the men's clothing union leader little known to the younger generation. Hillman became the confidant of Franklin Roosevelt, the political dynamo of the old CIO and extremely active internationally.

Hillman realized he could never head the CIO because that presidency would always be Phil Murray's. But Hillman was restless and created a place for himself amongst the world's highest government circles, until he died in July 1946. It was Hillman who first attempted to convince Eisenhower to run for the Presidency as a Democrat.

Hillman did not battle Phil Murray — and it now appears that Reuther will not battle AFL-CIO president George Meany, America's most influential labor leader.

This became apparent to many during the recent midwinter session of labor's high command in Bal Harbour, Fla. On the morning of Feb. 18 both men — whom many expected to be in furious combat — met at about 8:30 a.m. They breakfasted publicly and in good humor, in a corner of the Hotel Americana coffee shop.

SINCE THAT WAS the official opening day of the Executive Council meeting, it was a sign that there would be no civil war. And all was fairly peaceful behind the scenes that week. Peace was fine with Meany and peace is mass unionizing drive scheduled what Reuther needs.

He is intensely active on three fronts: organizationally in a to wind up during the summer of presidential campaign year 1964; politically, especially in Michigan, where the auto union people and their supporters officially lead the state Democratic party, and internationally.

Furthermore, Reuther will concentrate more and more on Washington. His contacts with the President and the attorney general are close. So are those of his team, brothers Victor and Roy, and his closest aide, Jack Conway.

Being close to Bob Kennedy means also being close to international affairs, in which the attorney general has taken an intense interest since his round-the-world trip. The attorney general sees the highest foreign diplomats quite often.

Thus, if Reuther continues his three-pronged activities — each of them high in newsmaking calom — most headlined labor leader in many lands.

Problem Of Creating Jobs

By PETER EDSON

President Kennedy's request to Congress for another $500 million for the Accelerated Public Works program—APW, but not WPA—raises the question of how effective this kind of assistance is in relieving depressed area unemployment. A preliminary answer is not much.

When legislation setting up this one-shot, one-year program was passed last fall, Congress authorized $900 million for it in federal funds, but appropriated only $400 million. This was to get it started and see how it worked out.

The job of Area Redevelopment administrator William L. Batt Jr., is to convince Congress it is working all right. Batt acts as coordinator for the 14 government agencies operating pieces of the business. He has to make sure there is no publication and that all approved projects meet conditions of the law on their essentiality and public financing.

THE 2,900 PROJECTS so far accepted for consideration are in various stages of progress from planning to financing to actual construction. The law specifies one-third of the funds must go to rural and low median family income level areas. Two-thirds go to urban areas of high, long-term unemployment.

Projects which U.S. government agencies like Soil Conservation Service, Bureau of Public Roads, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Bureau of Reclamation, Corps of Engineers, Forest Service, National Park Service and Post Office Department do or supervise directly on contract are farthest along because they get 100 per cent federal funds. So far, about a third of the allocated funds have gone to such projects but this proportion may be cut to a fourth of the total.

The other two-thirds of the projects approved so far have been for community facilities, sewers, water systems, public buildings or hospitals not qualifying for Hill-Burton funds—which could not be built now without federal aid. For these the federal government puts up 50 to 75 per cent of the money, local governments the balance from available funds or by authorizing special bond issues.

SO FAR, $250 MILLION federal funds have been allocated for 1,100 such projects to supplement $125 million in local funds. With the $110 million for 1,800 wholly federally financed projects, total allocations to date are $485 million. Average cost for the 2,900 projects is $167,000, but the range is from $10,000 for a post office repair job to $2 million or more for a major community facility like a water system.

Since the act has been operational for less than five months, it is a little difficult to tell what its full effects will be in relieving unemployment in distress areas.

Paul Southwick, in direct charge of APW at Department of Commerce, estimates that about 580,000 man-months of employment will be needed to complete the projects approved so far. This is only 49,000 man-years of employment. The average project will take about a year to complete.

This isn't very many jobs, when it is considered there are four million unemployed. But it is pointed out this is for only a little more than a third of the program.

ALSO, EVERY ON-SITE JOB is probably backed by one off-site job—cutting the lumber, making the steel and cement used on-site. Every completed project will create some permanent jobs. Nobody has any idea what the multipliers will be.

As for the "cost" of every job created by this accelerated public works program, with 49,000 man-years of work created by the $485 million worth of projects so far approved, the average is $10,000 per man per year, which is high.

Southwick thinks the average might be brought down to $8,500 per man-year of labor. But on public roads where a lot of machinery and a lot of materials are used, the cost might be $20,000 per man-year. And on hospitals where a lot of specialist labor and costly equipment is needed, the cost might be higher.

Using the $8,500 average, something over 101,000 man-years of labor would be created by the $900 million expenditure. About half of this, maybe less, maybe more, would go for wages to mostly semiskilled but considerable skilled construction labor in areas of excess labor supply.

Training School Helps Deming Salesmen

It's school time again at the Deming plant.

The semi-annual pump school for distributors and dealers of world renowned pumps manufactured by the Deming Division, Crane Co., is concluding at the local factory, with another session scheduled for April.

BEGUN IN 1944, the Pump Schools have been devoted to helping Deming jobbers and dealers get an intimate knowledge of the Deming products they sell and service.

Several schools are held each year. The first is for commercial distributors. This school is in session four days. The subject matter is confined to pumps and water systems used in homes, on farms and other non-commercial applications.

A second four-day school is held the following week for industrial jobbers. Pumps used in irrigation, food handling, moving oils, asphalt, sewage disposal, and other specialized areas are discussed.

The lectures are supplemented with "bench work" consisting of instruction in the proper use of trouble-shooting tools and assembling various types of pumps.

The last two schools also utilize instruction and demonstration for the Deming dealers. These groups of men consist of plumbers, well drillers, pump mechanics and installers.

ALTHOUGH THE last two schools are only two days in length, they cover fundamental hydraulics and a great deal of bench work.

Nearly 300 men attend the sessions each year.

This year an additional week of pump school has been scheduled in April at the Jacksonville, Fla., facilities of the Deming Division.

Since the school's inception in 1944, there have been approximately 6,500 students in attendance. In addition to all 48 continental states, students have come from Venezuela, Puerto Rico, Morocco, Hong Kong, Canada, India, Palestine, Australia, Chile, and El Salvador.

Walter F. Deming, general manager, Deming Division, says "The 1963 Pump Schools have been the largest schools we have had to date."

Slat In Baby Crib Is Blamed In Death

CLEVELAND (AP)—A slat attached to the rail of a crib to keep 14-month old Diane Duffy from getting out became a hazard instead of a safeguard.

The suburban Rocky River child was found dead by her mother Friday morning. Mrs. Richard Duffy said her daughter's neck was caught between the top rail of the bed and the slat, a space of 4 1/2 inches. Mrs. Duffy said her efforts at mouth-to-mouth resuscitation were unsuccessful.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: For those who have old paper and fabric covered lamp shades (with paper lining) may I suggest how I renovate all of our shades? I am in this business. Dust the shade inside and out well with a brush. Paint the inside of the shade with any paint which happens to be about the house. (Use a brush.) One must use a black, dark gray, dark brown, or aluminum paint. I prefer aluminum but often use black. Let this dry overnight.

Now paint over the dark color on the inside of the shade with white or any pastel paint. I always use a non-shiny, flat paint. Amazingly enough, one coat invariably covers perfectly. Hang the shade with a string to thoroughly dry on the clothes line, etc.

The last operation is to paint the outside of the shade with any color. One coat of flat paint only. Then let hang to dry once again.

Results? New shades that can be sponged off when soiled.

If a contrasting trimming is desired buy some at a dime store. One-fourth inch velvet ribbon is very attractive on these shades. Stationery stores sell "paper" narrow banding in colors and metallics, so often found on new shades. If one is planning to use new trim on their shade . . . the old trim should be pulled off before painting. The new bindings may be applied with glue.

Reason for the dark colors on the inside:

If a dark color is not applied first you will have an unpleasant

DEAR HELOISE: My cupboards and refrigerator shelves are covered with freezer wrapping paper.

If anything tips over, the wonderful wax surface can be readily wiped clean and no more danger of milk, juices, and so forth dripping from one refrigerator shelf to another.

My vegetable drawer also receives the freezer wrapping paper application before weepy vegetables are placed into it. And just who doesn't need the fastest, easiest way to do all expected of the housewife today?

MRS. MARTIN GRAHAM

I do! I find your hint excellent.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: My son who is left-handed does most of his own ironing and has taught me a couple of tricks when ironing or pressing pants and shirts.

He stands on the other side and uses the largest end of the board to press the legs of his pants. The pants fit the shape of the ironing board and have to be moved very little to press the whole leg.

Also, the weight of the other leg does not pull the pants off the ironing board because it is hanging over the wide end!

Try this same position for ironing shirts, fronts and backs. It requires fewer movements of the entire garment.

Man Killed In Gun Battle With Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An exchange of gunfire with police culminated in death Friday night for Carl Eugene Payne, 34, of Columbus.

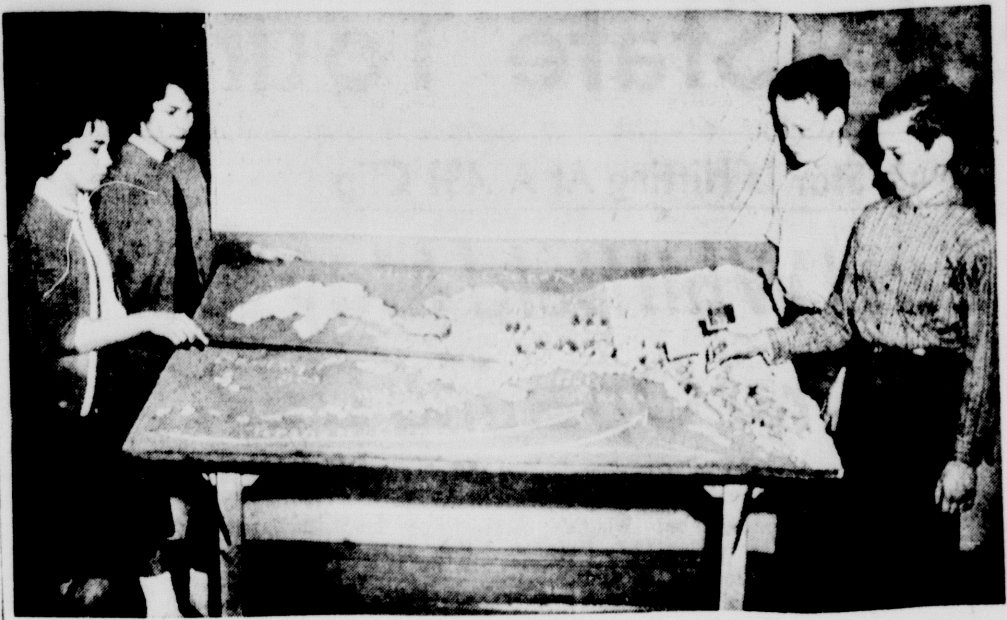

The police department said it sent two cruisers to a South Side house after receiving a telephone call, evidently from neighbors, saying there was a disturbance involving a gun.

As the cruisers pulled up, a babysitter ran from Payne's second-floor quarters, in the duplex residence. That left Payne and three children inside. His wife was not home.

Police said Payne approached them from the top of the stairs and pointed a 12-gauge shotgun at them. They said he threatened to kill them if they came upstairs.

Then, police reported, Payne fired a shot into the stairwell. Police Sgt. Earl Belcher retorted with a shot that struck Payne in the left side of the face, fatally wounding him.

Police said Payne and his wife had marital difficulties and that she had filed for divorce.

CHARGES ARE DROPPED

NEW YORK (AP)—A criminal court judge has dismissed felonious assault charges against Kenneth Ambrusko, 20, of Youngstown Ohio, and John Adams, 22, Westwood, N.J. The two University of Maryland students allegedly were involved in fight in which another student, Lorrie McQueen, 22, of Weirton, W. Va., was stabbed at a Manhattan hotel March 17.

NORTH TO ALASKA — Mrs. Bess Cline's seventh grade geography class has been "vacationing" the past three weeks in Alaska, before going on to the tropical clime of Hawaii. These four pupils and 15 classmates constructed a large scale model of the 49th state complete with mountain ranges, river, railroads and miniature forests. From left, Diana Crawford, Elaine Davidson, Jerry Preisler and Daryl Emelo.

Topographical Models Help Pupils In Geography Studies

Alaska is no longer a vast unknown of more than a half-million square miles to Mrs. Bess Cline's seventh grade pupils at the Salem Junior High.

The 19 pupils in her first period class cooperated in constructing a clay model of the fascinating 49th state whose vastness makes even Texas pale in size if not in tales. "There isn't a student who can't take his finger and tracing it along the seacoast, point out the important parts of the state and tell you some geographic and historic highlights as well," Mrs. Cline says.

"Here is my favorite part of Alaska," says Diana Crawford, pointing to the great Alaska Mountains, where awesome Mt. McKinley holds sway.

"And here is where Bering, the Dane, led a Russian expedition in the early 18th century in search of the sea otter and his rich furs," Jerry Preisler points out.

Then Elaine Davidson shows where the Japanese current battles the southern part of Alaska, keeping it warm, while the Eskimos in the northland get little relief from the bitter cold.

MRS. CLINE uses the clay model technique to impress the topography of the land on the minds of the students as they mold each inlet, bay, river or mountain. Miniature pines denote the wealth of forests. The students draw in the two Alaskan railroads, dwarfed in the great expanse of terrain. They know the locations of the Alaskan Indian tribes and the prehistoric Eskimo races. And so it goes, on and on.

Mrs. Cline is particularly stressing Alaska and Hawaii, 49th and 50th states, because most people have so little knowledge about these strikingly contrasting and unique land masses. Concluding a month of studying Alaska, the pupils will switch next to Hawaii and make a clay model of that tropical island complex.

The final six weeks of school the class will build a model of Ohio and concentrate on our state's colorful geography and history.

Woman Jailed for Posing As Nurse

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A woman originally sentenced to 10 days in the county workhouse for posing as a nurse at five hospitals in this area will have to serve 120 days because she took welfare aid for her three children while working.

Municipal Judge J. P. Riddle Thursday ordered Mrs. Avor Cave 29, to serve the longer sentence—110 days of which had been suspended—and revoked her probation.

City Prosecutor Arthur Snell learned the woman received $1,786 in Aid to Dependent Children payments while she was earning $3,475 a year at Crile Veterans' Hospital.

A case worker for the Summit County Welfare Department later said confusion over where to take a complaint of fraud caused by Mrs. Cave's using different names kept information of payments to her from coming to light earlier.

Springfield Local Dumped In State Tourney 59-49

Columbus East Rips East Tech

Marion Battles Tigers For AA Title

By FRITZ HOWELL Associated Press Sports Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two of Ohio's 916 high school basketball teams will enter the throne room today in the state's 41st annual tournament—but it would be precarious to make pre-game picks of the new champs.

Dresden's Jayhawks, 25-2, will battle Jackson Center, 24-3, at 2 p.m. for the Class A crown, and at 8 p.m. Columbus East, 24-1, goes against Marion Harding, 24-2, for the big school laurels.

Friday's semi-finals, witnessed by 27,033 at Ohio State's St. John Arena, were filled with fireworks. The explosions erased the last of the Class A top 10 teams, and left only fourth-ranked Columbus East in the Class AA elite.

Jackson Center Triumphs Jackson Center rode a balanced attack to a 44-40 win over fourth-ranked York Twp. of Sandusky, and Dresden's Jayhawks made 21 of 27 free throws to out-tenth-rate Springfield Local of Mahoning County by 59-49 in Class A.

But the big pyrotechnics were blasted in Class AA as Columbus East dominated play all the way to smack second-rated unbeaten Cleveland East Tech by 58 to 44. East spotted the Scarabs a 6-0 edge at the start, then put together scoring streaks of nine and 11 points to win it going away with a startling display of passing and scoring skill.

Urbana's Hillclimbers, who had defeated Clayton Northmont, Middletown and Dayton Chaminade—all unbeaten and in the top 10 of the final Associated Press poll—in their last three starts, lost the magic touch against Marion Harding.

The Presidents, 23-2 against Urbana's 24-1 record, also used the free throw line as the path to a 14-point conquest, 64 to 50. The Marion club, outscored 22-21 from the floor, cashed 22 of 30 charity tosses while Urbana was getting 6 of 14, to win handily.

Grabbed Title in 1951

Columbus East won the 1951 state title, and Marion hasn't been in the fixture since 1924 when it lost in early play. But the Prexies have canny J. Daniel Baker at the helm—the mentor who piloted Northwestern of Wayne county to the Class A crown in 1958. If he can bring his Marion marvels through tonight, he'll become the first coach to triumph in both divisions of the annual classic.

Dave Eviszior, Urbana's 210-pound 6-4 standout, led all scorers through the semi-finals with 23 points—but he couldn't match the combined 22 by Marion's Dan Roseberry and 21 by third-string All-Ohio choice Alan Rowley. The big oddity in that game was that Urbana picked off 37 rebounds to Marion's 27, had 66 field shots to Marion's 44, and 22 field goals to 21 for the Presidents, and still lost by 14.

Ken Fowlkes with 17 and Avery Godfrey with 13 paced the Columbus East point-getters, while Jim Robertson was tops for East Tech with 13. Urbana had a 33 per cent shooting mark from the field to Marion's 47, and Columbus East had 49 per cent to East Tech's 35 as the Scarabs, in the tourney for the seventh time in eight years, absorbed their worst defeat over that stretch.

York Township's Bud Hayward led the Class A list with 18 points, but like Eviszior's Class AA effort it was in a losing cause.

Mark My Word

By MARK W. MILLER

All season long it was felt that veteran Bill Beery was a sure bet to be named to a lofty position when the Associated Press 1963 All-Ohio basketball team was picked.

But, to the surprise of many fans, he was only given an honorable mention with some of the state's better players being named to the first three teams.

Even a bigger surprise was the player-of-the-year choice which went to Warren Harding's 6-7 ace, Jim Gardner.

We feel that the Panthers' three-year-veteran is a good basketball player, but on four occasions he was stopped cold, while his team was being defeated. In two meetings with the Quakers it was all he could do to hold his own with the smaller Salem unit which held him under his average in both clashes.

BEERY, WE CONTEND, could be a member on any one of the first three units, tied Gardner for scoring honors with 19 points in the initial encounter and outscored him the second tilt 22-21.

Both boys re-wrote individual season and career records. Gardner tallied 641 points for the 1962-63 campaign and Beery tallied 488.

The Harding giant collected 1,500 points for three seasons, while Beery was netting 1,156.

Some outstanding players are probably overlooked every year and we think that the voters missed the boat when they overlooked Beery.

OLD DUTCH will be a slight favored when it takes on South-east Plaza in a three-game series for the City Basketball League title starting Monday at 9 p.m. at the Memorial Building.

Southeast captured the first half crown, but lost to Old Dutch 75-45, then dropped a 60-55 decision to the same aggregation during second round action.

Probable starters for the underdogs will be Ed Votaw, Chuck Wilson, Ken McLeMore, Wayne Harris and Bob Henderson, and the favorites will counter with Ed Daugherty, Clyde Schoff, Jerry Shaffer, John Sturgeon and Jerry Hendricks.

Daugherty was named the loop's MVP recently, while his teammates Shaffer, Schoff and Sturgeon were chosen on the all-star team. Votaw of Southeast was selected on the elite squad.

THE UNITED HIGH SCHOOL Independent Basketball Tournament starts Monday with better than 40 teams entered. The side bracket tourney consisting of faculty teams of area schools also will be held.

Salem has entered a squad which will include Tom Cope, Jack Alexander, Marlin Davidson, Bob Martin, Blaine Morton plus several other outstanding teachers in the city school system.

The tournament will continue through April 6 and some 60 trophies will be awarded the winners.

ELAINE MELITSKA, 11, rolled an actual 240 game for the Elkettes team in the Saxon Bantam League recently.

She knocked down seven pins with her first ball, then missed the spare, only to follow up with eight straight strikes, finishing with nine pins in the 10th frame.

Her 240 beats the high of 232 listed in the "Prep Pin Patter" an American Junior Bowling Congress publication. She is a sixth grade student and attends Buckeye school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Melitska of 838 N. Ellsworth Ave.

Manfull Lake, located one quarter mile east of Kensington, opened for fishing today. The lake has been well-stocked with rainbow trout, perch, walleye and other first line fishing.

THE FIRST ANNUAL Columbian County American Legion Traveling League will hold its bowling awards dinner at the George D. Worth Post in North Georgetown Saturday, April 27, at 8:30 p.m.

Reservation for the event must be turned in to the league secretary Mrs. Ella McCoy, 358 1/2 E. Lincoln Way, Lisbon, by April 13.

Ed Knox, who spends his winters in Salem, heads for his new post as golf pro at Souris Valley, North Dakota, Monday.

Dick Harris, also a former Salem resident, spends his winters in Florida as an assistant golf pro and the summers as Country Club pro in Minot, North Dakota.

Weirton, W. Va., defeated Logan 67-50 to win its first Class AAA state basketball title. Oceana knocked off New Martinsville 43-42 to grab the Class AA title and Mullens Conley eased by Piedmont to capture the A laurels.

NO MAJOR CHANGES were made during the action in the Open House Bowling Tournament at Timberlanes last night. Action continues today and each week-end through May 5.

In last week's event Ronnie Shaffer, Bill Panzotti, Jim Potts, Joe Panzotti and Ronald Bruckner rolling for the Salem Lucky Strike No. 5 squad moved into fifth place in the standings with a 3,005 series.

Culligan of Beaver Falls is in first place with a 3,047 set followed by Miller Floor Covering 3,034, Sebring Recreation No. 2, 3,016; and Sebring Recreation No. 1, 3,006.

Ortiz Favored In Title Bout Slated Tonight

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Carlos Ortiz was a 3-1 favorite to defend successfully his lightweight title here tonight in the first world championship fight since Davey Moore died of injuries suffered in the loss of his featherweight crown at Los Angeles March 21.

Doug Vaillant, 25, an exiled Cuban now living in Miami, furnishes the 15-round challenge. Fight time is 9 p.m. EST.

There will be more doctors than men in the ring. The Parks and Recreation Administration has ordered one doctor at each ring corner—four in all—to try to guard against a repetition of the Moore injuries.

James J. Braddock, former heavyweight king, will referee. Ortiz, 24, born in Puerto Rico and raised in New York, is making his second defense of the 135-pound crown.

He outpointed Vaillant in 10 rounds at Miami Beach, Fla., on Sept. 2, 1961, before he won the title on a lop-sided decision over Joe Brown last April 21 at Las Vegas.

Fred Whitfield May Start For Indians At First Opening Day, Tebbetts Says

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — If spring training forms any criterion, Fred Whitfield appears to be on his way to making a trading genius out of Cleveland Indians' General Manager Gabe Paul.

The free-swinging left hander is causing Manager Birdie Tebbetts to start thinking about him as the opening-day first baseman. Whitfield, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals during the winter for pitcher Ron Taylor and infielder Jack Kubiszyn, figured to serve as a pinch hitter and an occasional replacement for veteran Joe Whitfield got two of the Indians' five hits Friday in their 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels at Palm Springs. His second hit, a long double in the ninth after a walk, tied the game at 1-1, and he eventually came home himself on Max Alvis' sacrifice with the winning run.

His batting average is now .431, with 22 hits in 51 at-bats. Currently Adcock is resting a sore hand, but it's healing fast. "Just watching Whitfield makes it better," he grinned. Adcock is hitting .400 himself, but he's been to bat only 15 times.

Several of the Indians are doing extremely well at bat this spring, but the 25-year-old Whitfield clearly has been the leader.

In the pitching department the standout is 20-year-old southpaw, sudden Sam McDowell. He held the Angels to two hits in seven innings Friday, and Tebbetts called the performance "outstanding."

Jacobs Heads Purchase By Group

Cincinnati Pro Basketball Team Sold For $500,000

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals have changed ownership in the middle of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division playoffs.

The sale of a controlling interest in both the professional basketball club and the Cincinnati Gardens, where they play, was announced hours before the Royals' game with Boston last night. The Celtics won, 125-102, evening the best-of-seven series at one each.

The new principal owner is Louis M. Jacobs, a multi-millionaire concessionaire from Buffalo, N.Y., who has holdings in race tracks, arenas and ball parks across the country. The rest of the Royals stock is said to be in the hands of Cincinnatians.

Jacob's group, the Emprise Corp., bought the Thomas E. Wood estate's majority holdings in the Royals and its 40 per cent interest in the Cincinnati Gardens. The price was not disclosed but was reported to be in the vicinity of $500,000.

Jacobs Holds 55 Percent Atty. Ambrose Lindhorst, the Royals' treasurer, announced the deal. He said Jacobs, who now holds 56 per cent interest in the team and 80 per cent of the Gardens, does not intend to move the Royals from Cincinnati or to make other changes.

"As far as the new owners are concerned, we have no intention in the foreseeable future of moving the team," Lindhorst said. "There's no question the new ownership has one ambition—to provide a winning ball club," he added, "and I think we already have one."

The Royals, led by Oscar Robertson and Wayne Embry, surprised the experts this spring by eliminating Syracuse in the semi-final regional playoffs. Cincinnati barely made it into the after-season series with a 42-38 record in regular play.

Wood, a millionaire real estate and insurance man, died in 1961. Three trustees have handled his stock holdings since that date. Takes Over Mortgage The transaction involved Jacobs' taking over a mortgage as well as other claims against the ball club. Wood made up the Royals' losses personally in bygone years when they sometimes ran as high as $100,000 a season.

Lindhorst said U.S. Rep. Carl W. Rich R-Ohio, will continue as the Royals' president and J. Thomas Grace will remain executive vice president. Grace, who represents the team on the NBA Board of Governors, said the governors already have approved the deal.

Lindhorst said he would go ahead with efforts to sign Jerry Lucas, the former Ohio State star, to a contract with the Royals. "I'm sure, if he's as reasonable in his attitude as we plan to be in ours, we can work it out," he said.

Lucas was the Royals' NBA draft choice after graduation last year, but decided instead to play from the Cleveland Pipers of the now-defunct American Basketball League.

Gonzales, Carter In 10-Round Bout

By MURRAY ROSE Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — He still looks as fierce as ever with his shaven head, drooping mustache and bulging muscles, but Rubin (Hurricane) Carter doesn't scare the middleweights any more.

"I think I can take him—and maybe knock him out," said Jose Gonzales, 23-year-old Puerto Rican who meets Carter, of Paterson, N.J., in a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight. The bout will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV, 10 p.m., EST.

The 25-year-old Carter had built up a terrific knockout record and his boasts that he could flatten any of the middleweights caused some of the other 160-pounders to shy away from him.

But no more since his last two fights with Holly Mims and Gemo Brennan. Carter beat both on decisions but even in victory his chin showed signs of being made of glass. Mims dropped him and Brennan staggered him. Then Joe Louis Adair, a sparmate from Wichita, Kan., dropped him in a gym workout.

Carter, ranked as the No. 4 contender by the WBA, has a 15-2 record, including 11 knockouts. He has won five straight. Gonzalez, unranked, has a 27-7-1 record, including five knockouts.

Despite his Puerto Rican confidence, Carter is the 3-1 choice.

Scoring will be by the rounds system.

Mejias' Big Bat Powers Bosox To 10-7 Victory Over Giants

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

For a guy who would like to kill himself for the Boston Red Sox this season, Roman Mejias has gotten off to a real live start.

The 30-year-old journeyman outfielder, acquired in the trade that sent American League batting champion Pete Runnels to Houston, has been repaying the Red Sox with consistent hitting since they helped get his family out of Cuba two weeks ago.

Mejias continued to pound the ball Friday, stroking three hits—one a homer—and driving in four runs as Boston bombed San Francisco 10-7 in an exhibition at Phoenix. Mejias' batting average now has soared to .431 on 22 hits in 51 at-bats.

3 Pros Tie For Lead In Azalea Open Golf

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Jerry Barber, rising young Canadian star George Knudson and Gene Littler, last year's No. 2 money winner, were the three leaders as the $20,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament's third round started today.

Their 137 totals for 36 holes, seven under par, gave them a one-shot lead over putting wizard Doug Ford and Larry Beck, a promising young North Carolina professional, who was national junior champion six years ago.

This tournament, which has produced three playoffs in the last five years, may well have another after Sunday's final round.

Sharing sixth place at 139 were Harold Kneace and Billy Farrell. In all, 20 players were under par for 36 holes and 11 others even with regulation figures.

Ford's fantastic 31-33-64 was the big story of Friday's second round. The fast-stepping former Masters champion shaved 10 shots from his first round score as he took 24 putts, seven less than the day before.

Barber, who'll be 47 next month and has won here twice before, had eight threes and shot the course in 33-33. He is the only player to break 70 both days over the 6,700-yard Cape Fear Country Club course.

Columbiana Teachers To Hold 'Fun Night'

COLUMBIANA — Columbiana Teachers Association members and their guests have scheduled a "fun night" when they meet at the high school gymnasium Monday from 7 to 10 p.m.

Members and their guests will participate in badminton, shuffleboard, table tennis and volleyball. The annual dinner, served by the music committee of the Parent-Teacher Organization for Columbiana Teacher's Association members and their guests, was held Wednesday at South Side School. Rev. Ralph Goldhardt, missionary on leave in Columbiana, was principal speaker.

Mrs. Theodore Griffiths was social chairman for the dinner. Program chairman was Arno Holderread.

MRS. FRED JOEBCHEN of E. Park Ave. will be hostess to the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Patrick's Church at her home at 8 p.m. Monday.

Election of officers will be held. Golden Link Class of Grace United Church of Christ met Thursday to package Easter gifts for residents of the County Home to be distributed Sunday during a visit to the home by the class.

Committee members are Jim Koehler, Bob Johnson, Eddie Miller, Larry Detweiler, Sue Dickens and Herb Ward.

A SUPERIOR RATING was received by the 75-piece Columbiana High School Band at the district band contest at Stanton High School recently.

The band is now eligible to enter the state contest April 27 in Columbus.

Judge Wyatt, who plays saxophone with the band, was chosen to appear with the U. S. Navy band during its Salem appearances today.

MRS. ROY GUY served as narrator and Mrs. Louise Gormley lighted the candles at a ceremony presented by members of the Civic Participation Committee of the Columbiana Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday at Valley Golf Club.

Twenty-eight candles, representing 28 countries, either affiliated or federated with the Business and Professional Women's organization, were lighted during the ceremony.

Committee members, who dressed in costumes representing various countries were: Freda Berryman, chairman, dressed in a Chinese outfit; Florence Guy wearing a sari; Mildred Arfman, in Japanese robes; Louise Gormley, in traditional Irish dress; Pauline Callens in a Latvian costume; and Pearl Byers, in an authentic Czechoslovakian costume.

The international club prayer was read to the group of 25 members by Pearl Byers. Mrs. Callens read the club collect and Mrs. Arfman concluded with the emblem benediction.

Refreshments were served in the form of an international smorgasbord, with various countries' flags being used as decorations and favors.

McLaughlin's Beauty Shop, located in the basement of the Isaly store, and formerly owned by Anna Mae McLaughlin, has assumed a new owner and operator, Miss Janice Doll, the new owner, is a graduate of the Paramount Beauty School in Youngstown and formerly managed David's Beauty Shop in Youngstown, before opening a shop on W. Park Ave., which will be discontinued.

Miss McLaughlin will make her home in Clearwater, Fla., following her marriage Sunday to Charles Adams.

New Middletown Lions Club will sponsor a benefit show for Tony Thomas, totally blinded in a dynamite explosion last summer, Saturday at Springfield Local High School.

The show, which will feature the Grotto Minstrels of Youngstown, will be presented at 8:30 p.m. A bake sale will be held.

Reserve University in Cleveland appeared before the committee to protest the eminent domain section on grounds that their property would be swallowed up by condemnation.

The new eminent domain section both schools along with Oberlin College.

According to Sen. Oliver Ocasak, D-Sagamore Hills, this represents class legislation and is unconstitutional. Ocasak's amendment to kill the entire eminent domain section was rejected by the committee.

Sees Condemnation Need — Collins argues that private universities need the power to condemn property for expansion.

"After all," he said, "they help carry the load. The more we help them, the more we help state universities meet their enrollment problems."

So far, no one is doing much guessing about what kind of bill will emerge if it goes into conference committee.

Gov. James A. Rhodes isn't commenting on the committee's action or on remarks that dilution of the bill represents a personal setback for the governor.

But sources close to Rhodes say he will be satisfied if the bill passes in its present form. They point out that the governor still has at least one more legislative session in which he could press for legislation to strengthen the regents' authority.

Then, the State Department said, the Castro government hurried off a second message that the MIGs "probably fired in error and that there had been no intention on part of the Cuban government to shoot at the Floridian."
